

HER LOVE THE TALMUD, SAYS THIS PRETTY GIRL.

Miss Rodkinson Helps Her Father Translate the Great Book.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—One of the most remarkable young women who ever came to this city is Miss Rosemond Rodkinson, now stopping here.

Miss Rodkinson is twenty-four years of age and has spent most of her days since childhood in assisting her father, Dr. Michael L. Rodkinson, in his great translation of the Babylonian Talmud. The father has spent forty years at his task. The daughter's share of the labor has been to put the results of his work into polished, literary English. There are to be twenty-three volumes in the finished book, a condensation from an official sixty-three volumes.

Miss Rodkinson was born in Vienna. "I have lived in the atmosphere of the Talmud ever since I was a baby," she says. "I am in love with my present duties, and I feel that in bringing people in touch with my father's achievement I am opening up to them a mine of knowledge that for sound sense, wide range of matters dealt with and the laws of health, social intercourse and jurisprudence that it contains has no equal in the world. Its precepts are as valuable to-day as when they were compiled."

WIDOW OF HEENAN TALKS OF OLD CHAMPION.

MRS. JOHN C. HEENAN.

"Benecia Boy" Like Jim
Corbett, but a Handsomer Man.

DETROIT, Nov. 8.—Sara Beven, widow of John C. Heenan, the old-time champion pugilist, who best Tom Sayers in a fierce battle, has been playing here with the "Way Down East" company. She went on the stage in 1857, and is now sixty years old. For many years she has made her home in California. In the course of an interesting talk about her famous husband, Mrs. Heenan said: "I first met John C. Heenan in Laura Keane's theatre, then on Broadway, New York. I was appearing in an extravaganza called 'The Seven Daughters of the Devil.' This was in the latter part of 1851, and he had just returned to America after defeating Tom Sayers and being robbed of the fight by the crowd breaking into the ring."

"I was greatly interested in that international event, and my curiosity was aroused when we were introduced to me. Well, when we were introduced I guess it was a case of love at first sight. He was a tall, handsome man, with reddish brown hair and a face that fairly lighted up when he spoke."

"I tell you who he resembled to a certain extent, and that is Jim Corbett, but my husband was better looking than Corbett—very much better looking. He had those large, gray Irish eyes that beamed on you with good nature. What sort of a man was he in his domestic life? Well, as I never had a husband but him, I cannot say whether he was above or below the average man, but I guess he was fully up to the average. There is one thing certain and that is that never a thought entered either of our heads for divorce or separation."

A CHEMIST SPEAKS of Predigested Food.

"After having tested and tried every form of predigested food on the market, and experimenting in my own family, my attention was attracted to an article headed 'Brawny Scots' Diet,' mentioning eggs and Grape-Nuts. I carefully tested the new food and finally began its use in my family, with most gratifying results."

"My little boy at that time was a pale, anemic child and very poorly nourished. Now, thanks to Grape-Nuts, he is as fine a specimen of infantile strength as I could wish for. My own personal experience means much to me. For some years I was troubled with dyspepsia; that is, I could not eat bread or any preparation of bolted wheat flour, such as cake or any of the starchy preparations, without a fit of indigestion, sour stomach, constipation and headache."

"As soon as I quit that sort of food and used Grape-Nuts, which has the starchy part predigested, I began to recover. The change has been remarkable. I formerly weighed 122 pounds and now weigh 137. Am strong, have more nerve force than I ever possessed, appetite perfect, sleep sound and can endure any amount of work. I know exactly where the change has come from, and it is from your truly scientific and wonderful food, which is worthy of the highest commendation." Ches. B. Prior, C. of P. LABOR NOTES

Assembly District, where Daniel De Leon himself is running for Assembly his vote was cut from 2,000 last year to a little over 1,000. De Leon's policy of hostility to the trade unions is believed to be responsible for this slump.

Andrew J. Lusk, representing seventy-four drivers in the Street-Cleaning Department, forty-three employees of the Department of Public Works in Brooklyn and the Department of Highways in the Bronx, has begun suits to recover back pay and overtime from the city aggregating $10,000.

One of the results of the election which is of interest to labor men is the disappearance from the official ballot of the Socialist Labor Party, De Leon faction, its vote having fallen below the required proportion to secure State recognition as a party. In the sixteenth each of other's cards and that a uniform scale of wages be insisted on. He also advises the establishment of a joint executive board. The rivalry between the two unions has disturbed the building trades for two years.

The strike has cost the unions more than $20,000 and it is estimated that the net result is the thorough organization of the cigar-makers of this city and substantially increased wages in several factories.

The place of the Socialist Labor Party on the official ballot will be taken by the Social Democratic Party, which has polled a vote nearly 50 per cent. larger than that of its older rival. The vote of the two parties combined, however, does not show much increase in the normal Socialist vote. The Social Democratic party has been the warm friend of the trade unions.

Three well known labor men are among the successful Assembly candidates in the city this year. They are ex-President Samuel Prince, of the Central Federated Union, a member of Cigar Packers' Union No. 25, who was elected in the sixteenth district; John J. O'Connell, of the Plasterers' Union, in the twenty-sixth district; and John J. Egan, of the Bricklayers, in the thirty-third district.

Reports received here show that the strike of the boiler-makers employed in the Boston and Albany Railroad shops at Springfield, Ill., is likely to spread to both ends of the line. The threatened agreed of the strike is due to the refusal of the railroad officials to confer with President John McNeil, of the International Brotherhood of Railroad Workers.

The Granite Cutters' National Union reports that since the general adoption of the eight-hour day there has been an unprecedented demand for granite cutters.

President John Mitchell of the United Mine Workers has issued his call for the annual convention of the organization to be held in Indianapolis, beginning on Jan. 21.

The Eighth Avenue Early Closing Association reports that its campaign for the closing of the stores on the avenue at 6 o'clock every evening has been almost completely successful, and that it has become unprofitable for merchants to keep open later. A corps of sandwich men is employed to patrol the avenue and to authorize stores which keep open after 6 o'clock.

Cater to Just and Unjust.

"They catch on going and coming," said a pedestrian on Nassau street yesterday, as he stopped in front of a big show case. In an upper corner of the case was a small notice about the closing of the stores on the avenue at 6 o'clock. The notice was in English and in French, and it said: "The city of New York has decided to close the stores on the avenue at 6 o'clock every evening. This is for the benefit of the public and to save the city from the expense of keeping the streets open after 6 o'clock."
